has led to this question in high political quarters here: "What will the Iowa republican organization, under control of Senator Rawson and Senator Cummins, do toward electing Brookhart?"

in Iowa's senatorial primary Monday,

In this connection it should be remembered that Brookhart and Cummins, after a long friendship, have become bitter political enemies, and in their senatorial contest two ago they fought it out on the Esch-Cummings railroad law as an issue. President Harding, then a candidate, emie publicly for Cummins, declaring the railroad bill the best piece of legislation of its kind ever passed by congress. Brookhart favors re-

State Machine Silent. While Senator McCormick, chairman of the republican senatorial campaign committee, has declared the national organization will co-operate with the state organization toward Brookhart's election, the Iowa state organization is yet to be heard from.

There has been a persistent report current among well-informed politicians at the capital here for some time primary, he would be knifed at the polls in November. It was pointed out that Clyde L. Herring, the democratic senatorial nominee, is not only considered a safe and conservative business man in Iowa, but he num friends, strong leaders in the Rawson Cummings wing of the Iowa repub

The situation is interesting further in that the attitude of the Iowa organization constitutes the third case to develop thus far in consideration of the senatorial primaries where in dividual republicans have it within their power to virtually assure the in November of a democratic candidate, as against a republican nominee whom they do not approve. Massachusetts Case.

rodeo-round-up scored another decided hit with a large number of fans who journeyed out to Lakewood vesterday afternoon in spite of the low-hanging clouds and threatening showers.

The evening program was called off on account of the rain.

The program tonight will offer the initial appearance of the big double bill, including the Venetian water carnival and dance festival, which are given under the auspices and direction of the Lions' club and the Civitan club respectively. The diving beauties' exhibition will also be repeated tonight and each evening for the remainder of the week.

The water carnival and the dance festival will be repeated again Friday night. The Griffith Mandolin and Guitar club will furnish the music for both the water carnival and the dance numbers. The members of this organization will ride in the gondolas and will escort the queen of the dance, who will be seated with her attendants on a large float, to the stage in front of the grandstand

> Ford's Offer, Main Issue of Matter, to Be Sidetracked Until Fall Elections Have Been Passed.

MORE RESPONSIBILITY

Bills and Countless Other Issues Are Filling the the Minds of Politicians.

> Constitution Bureau Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, June 7 .- (By Constitution's Leased Wire)-The house during the present session will take no port for the disposition of the government nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals according to reliable information received at the capital today. Political reasons are attributed to the proposed

What they propose is to sidetrack the main issue-that of Ford's offerby considering only minor features of the question, using this method as a means of deceiving the public into believing full consideration of the bill is being made. Frank statements from majority leaders of the house substantiate the intention.

House leaders in private conversa tion are quoted as saying they were unwilling to assume further political responsibilities at the fall elections. They say that their calendars are al-Lakewood - Attractive rendy filled with the bonus bill issue Program Is Promised for the ship subsidy bill, on which Press dent Harding is bringing force to bear for passage during the present session and countless other questions. With these, they claim their campaign back home will be completely taken up with out the necessity of other question at the very last minute.

Matter of Speculation. Whether or not leaders will be able to get by with their plans is a matter of speculation among political observers. For the past few weeks the house has been without an overburdened cal endar. While the senate has been working overtime on the permanen tariff bill, members of the lower branch of congress have been unable to dis pose of the time on their hands except by taking three-day recesses. which is the limit under rules of the house. This they plan to do for the remainder of the summer, or until the senate has voted on the tariff.

Knowing of these plans, advocates of the Ford lease in the house have naturally asked, the question, why not devote the time to consideration of the committee, report on Muscle Shoals? It was in reply that leaders confided their real intentions.

The only specific action contemplat ed for the present pertains to the derelopment of uncompleted work on the Wilson dam, for which a provision of $7,500,000 has already passed by the senate. In order that members of the house may not be accused of pigeon-holing the committee report, approval of the senate provision will be made, it is said.

Agreement Further Removed. In doing this, it is charged that ultimate agreement over the Ford offer will be further removed. The Ford offer, as pointed out by students of the proposal, calls for completion of the dam sites by his own engineers. Mr. Ford has expressed his ability to make the proper additions at a cost creatly less than the government right be able to, and his offer calls for the property as it now stands, without further changes by the gov-criment. To proceed with construc-tion before final action is taken on his offer will result in an obstruction auther than a help to an agreement,

That the complete proposal of the That the complete proposal of the automobile manufacturer will ultimately be accepted is the belief of a great number of observers. They roint out that, the only difference remaining unsettled between Ford and the house military afairs committee has to do with the elimination of the Gorgas steam plant, which has an appraised valuation of $2,500,000 against over sixty million dollars expended on the plant as a whole. With the main difference over a comparatively small item, it is believed

With the main difference over a comparatively small item, it is believed that the house will relinquish demands of the committee report.

Meanwhile, leaders of the house are placing their machinery in order for delaying any attempt to rush the legislation through the present session. And it looks as if their plans will be successful, unless outside pressure is brought to bear.

Must Decide Which Outranks-Major-General or Rear Admiral.

Washington, June 7 .- "Which comes first-the hen or the egg?" has given way to "who ranks first-a major-general or a rear-admiral?" as the all-absorbing question of the day. The world having failed to solve the former, President Harding has been personally called upon to decide the Judges advocate of the army and navy, respectively, have pondered the problem in vain, so it now takes its place with the bonus, tariff, ship subsidy, and other questions constantly before the chief executive of the nation.

The matter was first brought to the attention of official Washington when Governor-General Farrington, of Hawaii, wrote Harding asking an opinion as to which-Major-General Charles Summerall or Rear-Admira William Simpson, both stationed in Hawaii-should sit at the right of Farrington at state dinners, by virue of superior rank.

Harding referred the matter to Secretaries Weeks and Recsevelt, who in turn passed the buck to their respective judges advocate.

The army law department decided that Major-General Summerall is of higher rank, by virtue of the fact that he had received his permanent rank as a major-general before Admiral Simpson became a senior rearadmiral. The navy judge advocate, equally prompt, decided Admirel Simpson ontranked the general because a rear-admiral is a rear-admiral regardless of senior or junior rating and Simpson was a junior when Summerall was a mere brigadier-

Chairman of State Highway Commission Declares Plan Will Mean Big Boost to Roads.

The proposed plan to hold a great world exposition in Georgia in 1926, with the whole state of Georgia as the exposition grounds, if carried out successfully, will mean more for the cause of good roads than anything that has been proposed since the Cotton States and International exposition was held in Atlanta in 1895. according to John N. a statement given out Wednesday, Dr. W. B. Duvall, alderman from the first ward, attacked the city conwith having failed utterly to carry out improvement work which council authorized out of the streets' ordinary fund in the first ward.

dinary fund in the first ward.

"People over the city are getting tired of the inefficiency, idleness and dilly-dallying in that department. They are beginning to call it the destruction department," he declared.

H. L. Collier, chief of construction, and Max R. Hall, assistant chief, replied to the alderman's charges. They srid the unusual spell of rainy weather since January 1 has seriously impeded paving and repair work. They denied that the first ward has not received its proportionate share of the construction department's attention.

Loitering Is Charged.

Loitering Is Charged. Alderman Duvall asserted that the construction department loitered about last year and failed to apply the street and sidewalk repair fund set aside in the finance sheet, although the ward was suffering from deep holes in its attracts.

ward this year."

Chief Collier said: "We have given the first ward its pro rata share of improvements, as far as the weather would permit. We have been fearfully handicapped by the constant rains. We have large numbers of projects clamoring for attention at the same time. If the alderman will just be a little patient his ward will receive its full share of our efforts."

Mr. Hall made a similar statement, with the added explanation that it is a difficult matter to try speeding work in rainy weather by putting on extra forces, since 20 crews would be brought to the same standstill as one would be.

Alderman Duvall launched his fire against the construction department at the meeting of city council last Monday. He put through three ordi-

One measure requires the department to complete within eacht weeks any job of repair work ordered by council.

Mr. Hall said that the itemized list called for is already furnished the council at the beginning of each new year. He declared that it is easy to furnish estimates on 30 days' notice, and it is being done now. He stated that completion of repair work within a time limit of eight weeks would necessarily depend on the weather.

One measure requires the department to complete within each weeks any job of repair work ordered by council.

The second measure requires the chief of construction to furnish any member of council, within 30 days from request, with an estimate of the cost of any proposed repairing of streets, sidewalks or other public work.

The third measure directs the construction chief to file at the first meeting of the conneil each year, an itemized list of all public work begun the previous year and brought over into the new year, where the money comes out of the streets ordinary funds.

Mr. Hall said that the itemized list called for is already furnished.

WHAT THE PEOPLE WANT Announcement by Ernest G. Bentley, a member of the Fulton county delegation in the general assembly, that he will oppose legislative enactment of the charter vote of the electors of Atlanta indicates a lack of appreciation, on his part, of the duty of a representative of the people.

ative Bentley is quoted as having without clothing to protect them said that when the proposals to abolish the police board and to reorganize the board of school commissioners are presented to the legislature he will fight them, apparently ignoring or losing sight of the facts, first, that a majority of the participants in the recent charter election approved those proposed amendments to the charter second, that he was elected to his position as a legislator to represent the people of Fulton county-the vast majority of whom reside in Atlanta-and to act in accordance with the expressed will of the majority of his constituents.

As to the proposed abolishment of the police board, Mr. Bentley said "the members of the police force wrong."

But what the members of the police force want, or what Mr. Rentley thinks.

The members of the police department, like Mr. Bentley, are servants of the people.

The people have said, by vote of a substantial majority of those who participated in the election that they want the board abolthe plan is wrong."

In a democracy the expressed will of the majority is final, and urefully up to it. the mere expression of the people's will should end all controversy.

As to the proposed school board legislation, Mr. Bentley said: "I will agree to increasing the board of education to one member from each ward; but it's not right to legislate a person out of office in the midst of his term, and I intend to oppose it with all my power."

When Mr. Bentley took his oath

they want the board of education Monroe have made Monroe the trade reorganized in the manner indi-center that she is today. "BUNDLE DAY."

Today is "Bundle Day" in Atlanta, a day set apart for the collection of bundles of cloth and wearing apparel contributed by the good people of this city for the relief of suffering people in the Near East.

It is a day dedicated to humanity and consecrated in the spirit of Him who said that "Inasmuch as ve did it unto one of the least of these ye did it unto Me:" and the activities of the day, so far as they relate to the Near East relief, will be governed by the approprate slogan, "The bigger the heart the bigger will be the bundle"-taking into consideration, of course, the resources of the individual donors

For several weeks the work of systematically organizing the city in preparation for the collection of bundles today has been under way, in charge of the Atlanta unit of the nation-wide Near East Relief organization, Lucian York, local general chairman, and Mrs. Ulric L. Atkinson, chairman of the woman's auxiliary; and the response on the part of the city administration and the various organizations of the city has been most commendable and gratifying.

The pastors of the various churches of Atlanta; the officers of the Atlanta Sunday schools; the Federation of Women's clubs; the parent-teacher associations; the Boy Scouts: the Girl Scouts, etc .- all have contributed to the work of organization, and the use of twentyfive Atlanta school buildings has been donated for the day by the board of education, as places for the assembling of bundles.

All that has been done up to this time simply attests the wholesome Christian spirit that domamendments recently initiated by inates this community, and which will be still further demonstrated by the result of today's activities. The condition that prevails among the peoples of the Near East is most pitiable. Not only are they In a public statement Represent- starving, but they are virtually from the elements. In the following appeal to the great heart of America the relief organization has stated the situation clearly and concisely:

Clean out the attic and the closet orners to clothe the near-naked of the Near East, for the people are going in rags and nakedness while the looms of the Near East are still. The production of cotton and wool has ceased with the seven years of war, and the raw materials sent from America for the manufacture of cloth are only those imported by the Near East relief to be woven into cloth at its industrial school and workshops. And those people must be clothed. If we have no second-bests to give them, then why not our best? We can duplicate our clothes here in this country with a little effort, whereas a lifetime of effort in a do not want the police board abol- country where there are no indusished." and "I think the plan is tries will not avail a man so much

The Magic Separator The editor of The Pleasant Hill Times has been trying out a wonderful cream separator, and he gives this description of it—
"The separator is a sort of milk threshing machine. It has a circular motion, is highly geared, runs at a dangerous rate of speed, has a sound like the zooming of an airplane, and divorces cream from milk far more rapidly than the divorce mills at Reno operate. Since the invention of the separator it has been discovered there a lot more cream in milk than used be thought of. A diligent separato will get rich cream out of the poores bluejohn ever accredited to a cow while what it will do to milk from fine Jersey, for instance, is a revela-tion and a delight. The other day Old Man Buxaw, out on route 7, being in an experimental mood, filled Aunt Cissie's separator with hard water from the well in the back lot and wen to work on it. When he got through separating the product totaled three quarts of the finest pulverized lime-

The fact that a case of exophthal-mic goitre may so closely resemble be-ginning lung tuberculosis gives a hint of the cause of this type of goitre.

The term "exophthalmic" refers to the prominent, bulging, wide staring when Mr. Bentley took his oath of office he agreed to do what a majority of the people who elected him might command him to do.

too, than Hamlet without the melancholy Dane.

One of the important functions of the thyroid gland, which gland is affected in the various kinds of goitre, is the production of an internal secretion (some substance or ferment or element given off from the gland into the blood stream) which may be likened to the ignition spark in the internal combustion engine—the thyroid secretion seems to regulate internal combustion in the human machine.
Life is a combustion process. In many disease states due to bacterial indisease states due to bacterial in-fection, such as lung tuberculosis, the rate of human combustion or metab-olism is increased. This throws a greater burden on the function of the thyroid, and consequently the thyroid overworks—and that is what doctors call hyper-thyroidism or exophthalmic

Jefferson Davis, the chieftain of the confederacy, was a Wilkes county product; his father, Colonel Samuel Davis, was an officer in the continental army; he and his father moved to Wikes and the elder Davis, the grandfather of Jefferson, is buried here in Wilkes. The crime was committed in Webster county instead of Macon. I remember the case very distinctly, although I was a small boy. Mrs. Susan Eberhart was assisted by a man in slaying her husband. The case was tried in Preston, Webster county, with Judge Clark, of Ameri-cus, on the bench. Both parties were convicted and both hanged at the same time.

I was a young boy in Americus, where I was born and reared. The facts concerning the crime, the trial and the hanging made an indefible impression with the recent conviction of Mrs. Vinson, and her sentence to death by hanging, I note the statement made sometimes by reporters that she is the second woman to be so convicted in Georgia. Of course, this is not accurate, and I take it that it is meant to say that only one woman was ever hanged in Georgia under a sentence of I should say that this happened in the the courts.

But jeven this is note accurate. I take it that people making the above statement refer to Sue Eberhardt, who convicted of murder, before the War, and actually hanged, at Civil War, and actually hanged, at Preston, Ga. She was a white woman, and was convicted of conspiring with one Spann to killed Mrs. Spann, so that she might marry Spann. Spann killed his wife by choking her to death. As he was at this, Mrs. Eberhardt tossed him a handkerchief, with which he stopped her cries by thrusting it into her mouth. These exidently ing it into her mouth. They evidently had very little sense, since there was no effort to conceal the crime, and they simply ran away to Alabama to-gether.

At least one other woman has been legally hanged in Georgia. My aunt told in my hearing, when I was a child, of having been present at the thanging of a negro woman, at Marietta, just about the beginning of the Civil War. She was a slave, and was convicted of having attempted to poison the family of her master, by putting "jimson weed" in the coffee

Covington Educator Quits After Thirty Years in Profession

Covington, Ga., June 7 .- (Special) At a recent meeting of the schoolboard, all teachers were re-elected except Prof. H. B. Robertson, superintendent, and Prof. M. G. Boswell, principal, who tendered their resignation to enter new fields.

Prof. Robertson, after thirty years in the profession, has gone into the hotel business at Social Circle. Prof.

Boswell has accepted a responsible of-fice in the Atlanta scout work. The closing of the 1922 term marked a successful era in the Covington public school. The school, under the six years' management of Prof. Robertson, assisted by Prof. Boswell, his principal, has greatly increased the enrollment and systematic-operation of the school. Prof. Yaden of the Moultrie school will succeed Prof. H. B. Robertson. The teachers re-elected are: Super The teachers re-elected are: Super-intendent, J. L. Judge Howard Urges the Support of Highway Bonds in an Address at Banquet.

Americus, Ga., June 7.—(Special) Thirty-five tourists of the Georgia State Automobile association reached Americus this evening on their tour around the state. The party came here from Columbus, from which city they traveled via Richland, reaching Americus about an hour later than secheduled scheduled.

The tourists are boosting the proposed $75,000,000 state bond issue and members of the party were guests to night at a dinner jointly tendered them by the three civic clubs of Amer-

Accompanying the tourists is the Rotary boy band, composed of twenty young musicians, who gave a brief concert in front of the Windsor hotel and Enginemen here today.

With the elections of the next convention city tomorrow, officials said the big meeting probably will be ready for final adjournment by tomorrow evening.

"Do you know who it was?". "I believe I do," he answered.

'And you are shielding him? Your silence is shielding him, is it not?" 'I am doing more," he said. "I destroved my own identity, and the Douglas Guest of Felwick is an accounted murderer by others beside Joan. I can tell you only this, Cissy. I did it because it seemed to me the best and the most merciful thing to be done.

They sat in silence for awhile. Then sudenly Cicely started forward in the seat, her fingers seized his arm with a feverish grip. She gazed with distended eyes at the grim form coming slowly along in the center of the asphalted path. It was Joan who came toward them. Their, surprise was too great-her oming too sudden for words. Only Douglas felt a small hand steal into ais, and Cicely, in spite of her mortal terror, experienced a pleasant sense of protection as those strong fingers closed over hers.

Joan was 50 yards away, level with another seat, on which a solitary man had been sitting in a slouching attitude. As she drew near him the two who were watching with fascinated yes saw him draw himself upright and then shrink suddenly back. But he was too late. Joan's eyes had lighted upon him. She stopped short, the man's attempt at evasion was obvious. In a moment she was at his

"I do not want to hear any more," Douglas said, with a shiver. "I thought that you were dead."

"I have an excellent recipe for immortality," was the slow, bitter answer. "I desire to die."

"Life is what we make it, here or in the hills," Douglas said, with a sententiousness which sounded to bimself like ugly irony.

"For the cattle, ay, Douglas," he answered. 'For such as you and me, it is what the woman makes it. I'm going. I've no ill will toward you, but if you hinder or follow me, I'll shoot you like a dog."

So he passed out and was lost in the byways. Douglas remained sitting in the window and folded his arms.

He stood with his hand upon his chin, thinking as well as he might. What did he owe to Douglas Guest, he answered. "It is the woman who is guilty."

She was bewildered.
"Woman, David? Why, there was none who would have harmed a hair of his head."
Again he laughed, and again she turned pale with the horror of that uncarthly merriment.
"You see but a lirtle way, sister Joan," he said, "and the vengeance you cry for is in other hands. As for Douglas Guest, leave him alone. He is a guiltless as you are."
"You have told me so much," she said firmly, "you must tell me more. How comes it that you know these things?"
"I had to have money." he muttered. "She drove me to it. She turned me away. I was in rags, an the might. What did he owe to Douglas Guest, the friend of Emily De Reuss, successful wherehe had failed? Had he not seen their hands joined? He drew a breath which sounded like a hiss.

She was flung on one side. Off her guard for a moment, he had pushed past her with unexpected strength. From the window she watched him turn the corner of the street and vanished in the friend of Emily of Emi

"They have gone home," he answer-"They have gone home," he answered shortly. "I came on here. I wanted to see you."

They passed into the house and to her little sitting room, where a couch was drawn up before a tiny fire of cedar wood, and her maid was waiting. Emily dismissed her almost at once, and, throwing herself down, lighted a cigarette.

"Sit down, my friend, and smoke," she said. "I will tell you, if you like, about my travels, and then I must hear about the novel."

about my travels, and face I must hear about the novel."

But Douglas came over and stood by her side. His eyes were burning with fire, and his voice was tremulous with emotion as he replied:

"Afterward. I have something else to say to you first.".

The cigarette dropped from her fingers; she sat up. Then he saw that she, too, was agisted. There was an unsual spot of color in her cheeks, her breathing was certainly less regular. The wariance from her habitual placidity encouraged him. He scarcely hesitated for a moment.

"You'll think I'm insane." he began.

Handsome Decorations.

The beautiful home was elaborately decorated with a profusion of cut flowers, in the pastel shades, handsome palms and potted plants. In the spacious living room, where the exemony took place, an altar was formed of palms and ferns, together with tall wicker floor baskets filled with Eatser lilies as a background for the massive cathedral candelebra, holding white burning tapers. Pre-ly costume was a cascade bouquet of Ophelia roses, snapdragons, sweet peas and blue iris.

Little Emma Middlebrooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Middlebrooks, was flower girl. and wore a dainty frock of pink chiffon and lace, with narrow pink ribbons. She carried a basket of pink roses.

Richard Winn Courts, Jr., acted as best man.

Radiant Bride.

The lovely bride entered with her father, Raleigh Camp Cassels, by whom she was given in marriage, and was radiant in her wedding gown of white callot satin, elaborately embroidered in a pearl design, and trimmed with rose point lace. The waist was beaded in pearls, with the hatteau neckline, and the skirt was fashioned with heavy panels of pearls falling below the hem. The satin train hung from the shoulders and was embroidered in pearls. Her misty tulle veil was fastened to the hair with a spray of orange blossoms, and fell in graceful folds to the end of the long train. She carried an arm bouguet of orchids showered with lilies of the valley.

WHAT'S WHAT

By Helen Decie

The eighteenth century "beau" or "buck" with his lace cravat, his snuff "buck" with his lace cravat, his snutt-box, his curled wig, followed another now out-dated fashion in that he considered it an elegant accomplish-ment to be able to pay flattering espeeches to a woman. But no well-bred man makes a practice of flat-tering in our time, which, with all its advertised faults, appears to be less artificial and more sincere than less artificial and more sincere than less artificial and more sincere than the olden times. Nowadays, the persistent flatterer is accounted one of the most offensive of all social bores. If a man addresses flattering remarks to a girl, she must learn to laugh them away with some trival comment or "rose-colored spectacles" or "Blarney," or a reference to the Indian who was called "Chief Sugar Talk." If this is unavailing, she may change the subject in a manner expressive of her displeasure concernexpressive of her displeasure concern ing the too-personal character of the conversation. Mrs.M.SHERMAN, Route 2, Lake, Mich.

There is one fact women should consider and that is this. Women suffer from irregularities and various forms of weakness. They try this and that doctor, as well as different medicines. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and Mrs. Sherman's experience is simply another case showing its merit.

If your family physician fails to help you and the same old troubles persist, why isn't it reasonable to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound?

Getting off the train for a bit of exercise, Diana and Johnston are left behind at a small New Mexican town. After discovering that there is no means of feaving the town that night, they are met by a strange horseman, the rider, who turns out to be Pedro Dominguez, invites them to his ranch and against Johnston's wishes, Diana accepts.

After resting at the ranch, Diana received a note from Dominguez saying that Johnston would not be at dinner. She dines alone with Dominguez, who informs her that Johnston is seriously ill and will be days recovering.

Diana waited until Dominguez's footsteps had reached along the corridor and then she turned back to the Mexican girl and held out her hand for Johnston's letter and the roll of bills.

The girl took them out of the front

The girl took them out of the front of her dress and handed them over. Her expression was completely inscrutable.

Once more Diana went through her sign-formula, indicating the bills, herself, an outward motion of her arm, and the proffering of the roll of money to the girl.

The latter nodded understandingly and rose from her kneeling posture on the floor.

With swift motions of her brown hands, she indicated that Diana was to go to bed.

She made a gesture as if to blow out the candles, then lifting Diana's arm which held her wrist-watch, she pointed to three o'clock on the platicum dial and motioned to herself.

Diana nodded. The girl meant evidently that she, Diana, was to retire and to feign sleep and that the girl would return to her at three in the morning.

The touch of a hand on her shoulder aroused her. She sprang upright, her heart pounding in sudden terror. The hand that closed over her mouth The hand that closed over her mouth in the darkness, stilling her involuntary outcry, was small and soft. A few unintelligible Spanish words were whispered in her ear. She recognized the voice of the little Mexican maid and judged that they were an earnest plea for silence.

The girl took her by the hand, drew her to her feet, and enveloped her in a warm soft garment which seemed like an ulster. Then taking her hand once more, she led her toward the door. It opened without noise and, they were in the dark corridor.

A light as fainf as starlight came through a fan-shaped panel above it and revealed the fact that the door was held to place by a heavy par. Diana's in place by a heavy par. Diana's heart sank. It was incredible that heart sank. It was incredible that the girl could move the bar or that it could be done at all silently.

But out of the shadow another figure glided. It was a man this time, tall, straight and slight.

For a moment Diana believed, in panic, that it was Dominguez but when he came within the redius of

The door swung open, letting in a batch of air, cool and chill and peculiarly fragrant. The girl took Diana's hand again and drew her out on a bulcony, the duplicate of the one on which she had stood earlier in the evening with Domi.guez looking at the moonlight silvering the desert. Followed by the man, they crossed the balcony and began the descent of narrow stone steps which seemed almost to be a part of the wall, so completely were they enclosed on either side by the projecting walls of the house.

Indicating that Dina should follow nim, he began to make a silent detour of the house, keeping well in the shadow. Diana noted that the moon was waning. It would likely set within half an hour. Already the light was pallid, like the forerunner of dawn.

To the left of the house, stretched a clump of palm trees. Diana remembered that the road down which she had ridden that afternoon had wound through those palms. She wondered if perchance the Mexican had horses concealed in their mysterious rustling depths.

It was incredibly cold after the heat of the afternoon. She shivered and drew the folds of her heavy ulster gratefully around her.

Her guide plunged into the miniature palm forest and Diana followed him as best she could, stumbling along on her French heels. Twice a swordlike frond in her path slashed her across the ankle, cutting through her across the ankle, cutting through her diaphanous hose. She had creepy

AT WOMAN'S WINDOW BY W. L. GEORGE

How sad one feels sometimes after a few days in a hotel in a city which one's husband visits for business, not pleasure. One is detached from all one knows. One has no friends. The hotel bedroom with its from all one knows. One has no friends. The hotel bedroom with its standard furniture, its cleanliness which suggests a gaol, its unsympathetic engravings—how one comes to hate it! How a woman in such a situation misses familiar things. As a rule she settles down to bear it until she can get home again. It seems to me that she should not wait so long, and that she should be ready to bring homeliness with her wherever she goes.

The hotel room cannot be home, and one cannot carry one's furniture about, but I feel that one great assistance is to shed about oneself a certain disorder. One should not be tidy in a hotel room. A woman should cast her clothes about, to reproduce the homely disarray, and specially so as to have about her as many familiar things as she can. Also I suspect that in her grip there will always be room for a few

Also I suspect that in her grip there will always be room for a few trifles—a framed photograph of her children, a certain flower vase, a fan in its case. Those are her household gods, and if she will dispose them about the neutral room she will take with her that hint of home which she needs. She will be living no longer on her memories, but they will accompany her. She can't have everything of home, but she can have its pleasant shadow. She can avoid being cut off by preserving a few links of the agreeable homely chain. (Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.)

Converge 1922 for The Constitution so far on the power of auto-suggestion, particularly on the methods of Coue, who has made such a sensation in Europe. I told you of Coue last week simply because there has been so much talk of him recently and because he has been so extraordinarily successful in curing people who were hopeless invalids or hopeless cripples, or sadly afflicted in some other fashion. Many of our own doctors have teen doing for years what Emile Coundvocates, and I telieve that every man or woman can follow this method successfully without the aid of a doctor.

The thing to know first is that the imagination is stronger than the will.
You can believe this readily enough

> Common Sense About Eczema and Eruptions!

Here's Something About S. S. S. That You'll Be Glad to Hear.

You might just as well know it right now,—the cause of skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, boils and so on, is right in the blood. There is no getting away from it. Science has proved it. We prove it. You can prove it. When the cause of skin troubles and eruptions is in the blood, it isn't common sense to simply treat the skin. A bottle of S. S. S. will prove to you what is happening in your blood. S.S. S. is a scientific blood cleanser,—it drives out the impurities which cause eczema, tetter, rash, pimples, boils, blackheads, blotches and other skin eruptions. When these impurities are driven out, you can't stop several very nice things from happening. Your lips turn naturally rosy. Your eyes sparkle, your complexion clears. It becomes beautiful. Your face looks like that of a prosperous, ruddy, well-fed, refined gentleman, or if you are a woman, your complexion becomes the real kind that the whole world so admires. S.S.S. is also a powerful body-builder, because it builds new and more blood-cells. That's why it fills out sunken cheeks, bony necks, thin limbs, helps regain lost fiesh. It costs little to have this happen to you. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes.

Aside from the stymie, this local rule arrangement allows for all the difference which the W. G. A. allowed from St. Andrews rules during its split with the U. S. G. A. in 1915. The stymie has been restored and will be played.

Glen Eagles, Scotland, June 7.—(By the Associted Press.)—Joe Kirkwood, Australian champion, today won the qualifying prize in the thousand-guine golf tournament. His 73 to day made his total 144 for the 36-hole preliminary.

Jock Hutchison's score today was 77 making an aggregate of 152.

George Duncan scored 72, making his total 145, which puts him in second place. James Braid's aggregate score was 158.

Tom Blair, the only American in the tournament, except Hutchison, after scoring S9 yesterday, tore up his card today and is out of the competition.

BY MIKE THOMAS. The Georgia-Alabama Professional gruelling play and he was forced to association tournament was withdraw on the last eighteen. This finished on the last nine holes of the finished on the last nine holes of the Erookhaven course yesterday and Willie Damen of the Montgomery Country club was the winner by one stoke over Stewart Maiden, of East fake, who finished second. Damen's score was 803, while Maiden's score for the 72 was 304. Charley Hall, the long-hitting Birmingham professional finished third with 307, and Frank Ogg, of Ingleside, finished fourth with 317, Howard Beckett, the Brookhaven professional pulled a garrison finish and landed in fifth place, with a 324.

Willie Damen, who was a leading contender all through the tournament, never finished in the special prize honey, the $25 for the best eighteen holes on each morning and afternoon round until his last round when hetied with Charley Hall and the purse was split between them. Damen is the proud possessor of the gold medal and a check for $150 plus the $12.50 special prize money that he and Charley Hall divided on the afternoon score. Maiden has a check for $100 rlus the $25 special prize that he won on the morning 18. Charley Hall won $75 and $12.50. Frank Ogg won $50 plus the $25 that he landed on the morning round Tuesday, and Howard Beckett won $25. Willie Damen, who was a leading tered. He rammed down a 25-foot putt for a four and was still one stroke up. The next hole was halved in fours, and on the next hole, Stewart was in trouble and took a five, while Damen was on his first and took the regulation two putts. The fourth and fifth holes were halved in 5's nd 3's, respectively. Maiden Evens the Medal. Maiden Evens the Medal.

On the next hole the 135-yard 15th, both were on, with Maiden 1' feet from the cup. Damen was about eight feet from the pin, and Stewart brought a round of applause from the gallery when he punched his putt for a two. Damen took his three and the medal areas with part help. for a two. Damen took his three and the medal was even. The next hole was halved and Damen took the next 6 to 5. But Stewart came back strong on the eighteenth and won 6 to 5, making the medal of both even again. The first two holes of the outward try were made in fours and fives, respectively, and on the first hole Damen took a three to Stewart's four and never lost this one stroke advantage. The 13 was played in 5s and the fourteenth in 4s, the fifteenth in 3s, the sixteenth in 4s, the seventeenth in 5s and the eighteenth in 6s. Maiden lost a wonderful chance to tie up the play on the eighteenth, but his spoon failed him and his third shot was to the left and over the green. Damen's third was also well over, his fourth was outside of green. Damen's third was also well over, his fourth was outside of Stewart's chip shot and Damen failed to put down his putt but holed out his second. Maiden missed an eight footer by a hair, and took his six and the first and second prize winners shook hands and walked to the clubhouse. Total 78

HALL CLIMBS TO THIRD.

Charley Hall, whose long hitting from the tee has been the sensations of the tournament in this department, after a poor start, finally got going and finished his play with a fine 75 yesterday afternoon. This, with his morning round of 77, placed him within striking distance of the big price.

Hall's 81 on Tuesday morning was the round that really put him out of the money, and according to his statement his putts failed to fall for him on this round even more than on any of the others. His score for the 72 follows: 81-74-77-75.

Frank Ogg, who was the special prize winner on Tuesday morning, had two bad rounds when he took an 82 on Tuesday afternoon and on yesterday morning he shot an 83. He came day morning he shot an 83. He came back strong, however, yesterday afternoon and shot a 78, which landed him in fourth place. His scores were 7482-83-78—817.

Howard Reckett, the Brookhaven pro, started poorly with an 81-85 for a 164 and yesterday he shot 80-80 for 160, which gave him a total of 324 for the fifth prize.

Andy Gray, the youthful professional from Augusta, who played excellent solf on the opening day, found that Chicago, June 7.—New York made an uphill fight after losing the lead to Chicago and launched an attack on Schupp and McCabe and won the second game of the series 9 to 7. Schupp's wildness, coupled with slow support behind McCabe, enabled the visitors to win out. Chicago again outhit their opponents, but could not get the breaks. Bib Falk, of the White Sox, cracked out his seventh homer of the season, while Mulligan got four hits, including two doubles in four times up. Falk objected to a strike called on him in the 9th inning and was ordered out of the game by Umpire Wilson.

After Pitching Hitless Ball for Seven Innings Cuban Slabman Lets Up

Meyers hit to Tuero, who, with a fine chance for a double play by throwing home, elected to toss to Graff at third, forcing Burke, while Emery came in with the Vols second run. Knaupp stonded at second card.

Whereupon Lawrence Dovle opined that the first one hundred years were | to invariably the worst and succeeded in proving during the Vols' half of the ninth that run-getting is possible against the best magicians, They scored two runs in the last frame rally, just half as many as Crackers compiled in grabbing off the first game of the series.

One Game Played. The battle was the only one staged, although it had been planned to start this important series with a twin bill. Rain entered the argument soon after breakfast and continued until well after the dinner bell. So the unsuspecting public sat by as the sun used the time set aside for the "Widow by Proxy" is the name of the play at the Forsyth this week. It is a farce, and as funmaking is ts sole object, it can be counted a huge success, in that the audiences at all performances so far have been in an uproar of merriment from the beginning to the end of the play. The widow by proxy is most fascinating. Her tears are something like the patent fire extinguisher that starts pouring out water when the "I see some girl is going to sue a school board for putting her out for wearing short skirts." ### Keith Vaudeville.

The program for the last three days of the week, for today, Friday and Saturday, is the closing engagement of the summer season of Keith vaudaville at Keith's Lyric theater. The Crisp sisters, two lovely and attractive girls, who are superb dancers and singers, and with Harry ans and company, in a unique of bring of songs, laughter and dances stands out as only one of the exceptionally bright spots on the bill.
"Her Guardian" is the title of a novel comedy skit with songs, presented by Ned Nestor and Olivette Haynes, this clever little skit affording wonderful opportunities for funmaking. making.
Other acts are Weber, Beck and Fraser, in songs, styles and sayings; Althea Lucas and company, remark, able and dexterous gymnasts, and Claymo, novelty clay modeler.

Loew Vaudeville. (At the Grand.)

The new bill which opens for the last half of the week at Loew's Grand theater has for its topline attraction "Bits of Dance Hits," a seenic and versatile dance offering presented by four talented dancers, two agile young men and two pretty and graceful girl dancers, in a variety of brilliant dance steps. Included are character, classical and eccentric numbers.

Another prominent act on the bill sthat of Robey and Gould, two ecentric comedians, who have an exercise judicross offering called "So mm I." The act has been built for ighing purposes only and accomshes that end easily. Other acts are Armstrong and illbert sisters in bright bits of orignalities. One of the young ladies is comedienne of note and furnishes lot of good, clean comedy; Mardond Rome two "grop". Rome, two "wop" characters, Cliff Bailey duo, eccentric clown acrobats.

The feature of the screen bill is Doris May in "Boy Crazy."

In "Reported Missing." starring Owen Moore, at the Howard theater, the leading lady is none other than pretty little Pauline Garon, who flashed across Broadway not long ago as a prominent member of the "Lilies of the Field" company. It is said that her motion picture debut has been made under the most happy conditions. Playing opposite Oyen Moore, she has been given a bindant opportunity to show her motion picture possibilities, and that she has taken full advantage of it seems proven by the announcement that she will be seen in additional important photopiay productions in the future.

Afternoon Stock Letter, New York, June 7.—(Special.)—The kind New York, June 7.—(Special.)—The kind of selling which has characterized the market for the past three days continued all morning and sentiment on the floor was quite bearish. Nevertheless, only spasmodic headway was made. While some stop loss orders were caught there was nothing which looked like liquidation. Around midday the supply of stocks became scarcer, which was apparently a cue for buyers, and short covering began to appear. This was particularly noticeable in the independent steel stocks.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Chicago, June 7.—Watermelons are comping to city markets in far greater plenty this season than was the case a year ago. According to a review which the United States bureau of markets issued today for the week ending June 3, the big supply is due partly to the increased acreage planted and jartly to the fact that the 1922 season is further advanced. Shipments so far have totaled nearly three times as many carloads is in the corresponding period last year. The market was so liberarly supplied that prices receded $150 to $200 per car.

Cantaloupes and tomatoes, as well as watermelons moved in heavier volume, whereas hipments of strawberries, onions, lettuce and obtatoes were lighter, as compared with the preceding week. Miriam Battista.

(Coming to Loew's.)

An event of interest to theatergoers of Atlanta is the coming on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week to Loew's Grand theater of Miriam Battista, famous on the screen and stage, in a personal appearance. Little Miss Miriam will be remembered by many for her portrayal of kid parts in "Humoreque," and "Smilin' Through," in which pictures she received great praise by screen critics. Miss Miriam will appear at all shows on these days and on Tuesday afternoon immediately after the vaudeville performance she will hold a reception for the children on the stage of the Grand.

Miriam is noted in motion picture studios for her ability to portray emotional roles. She knows nothing of artistic temperament, and when called upon to produce tears it is always necessary to produce music. If she has a harp, a violin and a cello she responds to them instantly. She began her stage career at the age of three, appearing with Maud Adams in "A Kiss for Cinderella." She also appeared with Madame Nazimova as the little boy in Ibsen's "A Doll House" on the speaking stage and later with Nazimova in her screen production, "Eye for Eye."

COTTON PRICES SCORE NEW HIGHS FOR 1922 SEASON

Atlanta Spot Middling At Highest Quotation Since October 29, 1920

BY MARION KENDRICK.

Cotton prices went into a sensational advance Wednesday and before day's trading closed new high levels for the season were established. Gains of $5 per bale and more were rercorded, with the markets scenes of wild excitement as the buying continued. The general close in New York was strong at a net advance of 82 to 99 points, while in New Orleans last prices showed gains of 81 to 104 points. Atlanta spot middling jumped to 21.50 cents per pound, a gain of 90 points over the previous close and 65 points over the previous high of 1922 recorded on June 2. This is the highest price quoted here since October 29, 1920, when the same quotation was registered.

Unfavorable weather conditions in the cotton belt were responsible for the big gains. The weekly weather report in itself had little effect on trading, but detailed dispatches from the south telling of heavy rains threw a "crop scare" into the markets. In New York, early reports of rains and steady Liverpool cables caused prices to soar 5 to 16 points at the opening. The same ruling circumstances caused an advance of 9 to 14 points in New Orleans at the same time. There was little buying in New York after this for a period and toward noon prices sagged to within 3 to 5 points of Tuesday's closing. In New Orleans, however, the market was fairly active. When the weekly and detailed weather reports were received, trading in both New Orleans and New York became very extensive.

"Temperatures averaged mostly below normal in the cotton states especially in the central and western portions and there were heavy rains in many localities, particularly in the eastern and more western sections of the belt," read the weekly report. "The progress of cotton in Texas was about the average to good, but the crop is late generally and the condition still poor, except about normal in the southern and western portions. The nights were somewhat too cool in Arkansas, but the advance of cotton was generally good and the condition varies greatly. The progress of cotton was good in Tennessee and fairly good in the Carolinas, but field work was delayed in the latter area by too much rain The progress of cotton was about the normal in southern Georgia but poor elsewhere in that state, and the week was generally unfavorable. The progress of cotton was rather poor in Alabama, Mississippi, and Oklahoma, where the weather was too cool and wet. Condition and stands in Oklahoma range from very poor to good, while the crop is generally late and mostly needs cultivation. Weevil activity is reported in many sections, including a few localities in southern North Carolina. December moved to 21.20, about 99 points higher in New York and the general close in both markets was near the best prices. Longs who sold before the weekly reports were among the big buyers. New York spot middling was at 21.70 in comparison with 20.90 on Tuesday. New Orleans middling advanced frrom 20.38 to 20.83. could not be got, then none of us would be wanted. What I have always contended in the numerous articles and books I have published out of an unrivalled experience of the cotton trade all over the world, is that we must regard cotton production and manufacture as one whole industry, and that we should always put in the forefront the proper remuneration of the cotton planter. The planter, of course, should be encouraged to avail himself of all modern appliances, scientific methods, and inventions, and to cultivate his land ecnomically and to the greatest advantage, but when he has done this his enterprise should be fully acknowledged and appreciated. Especially should consideration be given at a time like the present, when the work of the planter is not only very costly, but surrounded by extraordinary difficulty." he said.

CONDITION UNFAVORABLE

IN GEORGIA, SAYS REPORT. "The past week was decidedly un-favorable for agricultural interests on account of the excessive rainfall in almost all portions of the state. In favorable for agricultural interests on account of the excessive rainfall in almost all portions of the state. In many sections lands were washed, the soil is boggy, farm work was completely interrupted, and crops are almost overwhelmed by weeds," reads the report on Georgia. "In the southern division where crops have heretofore been clean and well cultivated the week was not so bad, and cotton made about normal growth; here it is blooming freely and some bolls have formed; in the central division, and especially in the north, the growth of cotton was slow, and the excessive rainfall is damaging it; cultivation is badly needed and some cotton has not yet been chopped out. Weevils are very numerous, but have not really done much damage as yet. "Corn is doing fairly well in the south, but is getting grassy; elsewhere it is mostly small, and in the horth very late, with much still to be planted; lowland corn has been flooded and it is feared that much will have to be replanted. Wheat and cats are poor to fair. Setting sweet potatoes continues; sweet potatoes are vining well. Harvesting white potatoes is progressing northward. The early peach crop has been about all harvested; rains interrupted picking considerably. Cantaloupes, and to nless extent watermelons, were damaged by excessive rains. Pastures

Mcara's Position.

| STOCKS | STOCKS | Industrials | High Low | Close | C In an important statement released to the American Cotton association and which was sent The Constitution Wednesday night, Sir Charles W. Mcara, one of the most prominent British cotton manufacturers, of Manchester, advocates that the spinners should take a greater interest in the grower. He further declares that the spinners must depend upon southern states to furnish them with supplies of raw cotton and terms condition of the cotton crop in the south as very serious.

"I am by nature neither a pessimist nor an alarmist," he writes, "but the state of things existing in the cotton fields of America at the present time must give rise to the gravest anxiety in the mind of everyone who has the welfare of his trade and his fellowmen at heart. Mr. Harvie Jordan, men at heart. Mr. Harvie Jordan, whose word can be relied upon entirely, tells a story of what he has seen on a personal tour of the cotton-producing states that is calculated to bring not only British spinners, but those of every other cotton manufacturang country, to a vivid realization of the position of things. Not only is the boll weevil menace a terrible reality, but the result of the drastic deflation in the market value of staple farm products has brought farmers in the south to the verge of ruin.

"The losses on the two crops of cotton produced in 1920 and 1921 are conservatively estimated at $2,300,-100,000, and on top of this thousands of negro tenants, share-croppers and laborers are leaving the cotton fields and moving to industrial centers as a result of their inability to tope with the changed conditions resulting from the cotton boll weevil menace. Indeed, the whole situation is changing in the southern states, and if capital and labor are not forth-roming for a more intensive and naturally more costly system of cultivation the outlook is very black indeed. The question arises, if America is obliged to go out of business as a cotton producer, where is the world in future to get its supplies?

Livermore Expects Lower Prices in Stock Market; Has Been Selling Short

Constitution's New York Financial Correspondent. New York, June 7.—While soft in spots, today's stock market wa New York, June 7.—While soft in spots, today's stock market was dull and traders in general arrived at the conclusion that the next price movement might be either up or down, according to the news developments. Livermore, the largest trader in the street and the most venturesome, has been selling stocks short for the past few days, taking a chance that lower quotations are going to be seen. From reliable in formation this selling has been done through houses handling inverse ment accounts to make it look like liquidation. Call money renewed at 3½ per cent today, the lowest since May 2s and then dropped to 3. Bankers have done their best to keep mone rates up but the country's large gold supply and general trade below normal the job has about been given up. Clearing house banks held meeting here today to take joint action in lowering interest rates of deposits, feeling that easy money was here to stay for some time. Action was postnoned for a week.

An advance of ten points to 5.75 cents a pound was announced in the selling price of lead today by the American Smelting company.

Today's weekly review of conditions in the iron and steel trade says that prices continue to gain in strength as producers are forced to use a large percentage of high priced coal from Kentucky and West Virginia. Demand continues satisfactory.

Western dispatches reported that a well of 100 barrels a day turned up in the new northern Montana oil field. These developments are being closely watched by holders of Great Northern and Northe

W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, says that crop condition along his company's lines are excellent and much better than expecte earlier in the year. He says the wage reductions will make up on quarter of the loss expected from the cut in rates. He declines to ex press an opinion as to whether there is going to be a railroad strike.

Wall street read with much interest the dispatches from Cincinna quoting Samuel Gompers, who is there attending the conference of rail way labor leaders on the wage cuts. Gompers says the decision of the supreme court holding labor unions financially responsible for loss sus tained by employers during a strike "is a blow at the very foundation of organized labor in America." He says the American federation next week's meeting will lay plans to appeal to congress and the pub of the United States, thus waging war against the supreme court.

Judge W. B. Sheppard, of Pensacola, Fla, will preside over the June torm of the United States court when it convenes here Moaday, June-19.

The term had been ordered postponed for one week by the late Judge Beverly D. Evans, but it suits Judge Sheppard better to hold the court on the date originally fixed in the calendar. It is hoped the docket can be cleared in a week.

The grand jury is expected to have much business before it, as the grand jury was not called when the court was in session last winter. It is known that many cases will be presented to the jury and a number of indictments are expected, though it is not probable any of these cases will be tried at this term. There is already enough business on the docket both civil and criminal, to keep the date of the fields.

Georgia also gave impetus to good reads always impetus to good reads always in this section.

The heavy rains have left many important roads under water, which is a deep in some places that the engines of automobiles attempting to plow through are drowned. Detours at many points are are the usual stretches of road where the farmer and his mule team find pulling stalled carse out of the mud more profitable than fighting grass in the fields.

The last few days show improvement, but the water still covers main highways at a number of points, and there are found in practically all countries. It is not surprising, therefore, that the newspapers are being deluged with appeals to proclaim the grassiant of the fields.

A number of south Georgia counties are ready to issue bonds as soon as it appears that federal money to aid paving projects will be available. Dougherty county has just ordered seven and a half miles of new paving south of Albany, and has the money in hand for other projects as soon as federal aid is forthcoming. Several bond elections have been held up for more than a year on account of the uncertainty of future federal aid.

RADIO DEPARTMENT TO SING FOR RADIO

An Atlanta singer who has delighted King Albert of Belgium, his queen and the little prince and princess, with her beautiful voice will sing for WDAW's audience of radio fans to night at the 9 o'clock period.

The artist is Mrs. James B. Buchanan, who was Miss Terressa Thrower before her marriage. During the war she gave her services to the enertainment department of the Y. M. C. A. and was sent to France and felgium where she sang for French, British and Belgian soldiers. So warm were the praises voiced by many of the officers who heard her that King Albert requested a special au-with which tongue Mrs. Buchanan is almost as familiar as she is with English. The second number will be "I Know a Lovely Garden," by Guy D'Hardelot, sung in English. The Habanera, from Carmen, in Italian, is the third number. The last selection will be a real old-fashioned southern plantation song. "Ma' Curly Headed Baby," by G. H. Glutsam.

The concert will begrn at 9 o'clock. The regular news and market service will be broadcast at the 8 o'clock period.

M'FARLAND LEADS BARRETT IN RACE FOR PRINTER HEAD

Indianapolis, Ind., June 7.—(By the ssociated Press)—Official tabulation of the vote cast in more than 700 cities for the election of officers of the International Typographical union was begun here today by the union's board of canvassers, with indications that only two changes in the results as shown by unofficial tabulations were sibilities. The board did not exect to complete its work before Mo

No announcement was made of the complete unofficial votes but with only complete unofficial votes but with only the votes of a few unions missing, the tabulation showed William R. Trotter, of Vancouver, had a lead of less than two hundred over James J. Hoban, of Cleveland, candidate for re-election as second vice-president, while William O'Leary, of Boston, needed to gain few more than 100 votes to be third hoice as one of the three trustees hosen for the union printers' home. Ialcolm Knock, of Boston, had the light lead over O'Leary.

The re-election of John McParland, at New York, as president by approximately 4,500 votes over Walter W. Harrett was assured by the unofficial rote, as also the election of Charles Howard, of Detroit, as first vice-president over D. I. Campbell, of Norfolk, Ya. J. W. Hays, of Minneapolis, also was shown as winning re-election as eccretary-treasurer, defeating William H. Towne, of Duluth.

J. B. HOCKADAY,

LESSON No. 63. THE RADIO COMPASS.

The valuable directional properties of the coil or loop aerial are made use of in the radio compass. In its simplest form this type of aerial consists of a wooden framework approximately eight feet square on which is wound a number of turns of wire. The aerial is so supported that it may be revolved on its axis and when used as a radio compass, is provided with a scale marked in degrees and with a pointer which records its position.

When the aerial is properly connected in a receiving circuit and rewhen the aerial is properly connected in a receiving circuit and revolved so as to be at right angles to the incoming waves, no sound is heard in the receiving telephones. It it is turned until the plane faces the waves, signals of maximum audibility are heard. The direction of a transmitting station can therefore be determined by adjusting the loop

Land compass stations use this device to furnish latitude and longitude to vessels lost in a fog. The method is as follows: The radio operator on a vessel lying off the coast in a cense fog calls the land compass station on a wavelength of 800 meters and requests the position of the vessel by transmitting OTE (request for bearings). The call is received by the central or control compass station, which in the New York district is located on the waterfront in lower New York. Land telegraph wires connect the control station to four outlying land compass stations, all of which receive the wireless message simultaneously. The stations are located as shown in the diagram and each is equipped with a loop aerial mounted on a scale which registers from zero to three hundred and sixty degrees. The operator on the vessel is requested to send his test signals which usually consists of the ship's call letters with the dashes made extra long and repeated for a period of fifty seconds. The loop aerial of each station is focused on the direction of the signal The program for the recital will begin with the lilting Spanish melody of "La Paloma," sung in Spanish with the lilting spanish melody and the aerial revolved until a position is found where the signal is at a minimum. The reading in degrees on the with which tongue Mrs. Buchanan is reported by land telegraph wire to the control station. and the aerial revolved until a position is found where the audibility of the signal is at a minimum. The reading in degrees on the scale is then

The Coul Aerial

The operator at the control station has before him a map on which positions of the outlying compass stations are recorded, the stations in each case being the center of a circle marked in degrees. From each station a string is layed out, as shown in the diagram, so that it crosses the circle at the number of degrees reported by the operator or at that particular station. These strings will cross each other at a certain point which is the location of the The latitude and longitude are then calculated and the control station reports the position by wireless to the radio operator on board the vessel. The time consumed in locating the vessel and reporting latitude and longitude to the ship's operator is usually from three to five min-ntes. In many instances the vessels lost n an impenetrable fog and close to the

PRINCESS MARIE GIVEN OVATION ON WEDDING EVE

Belgrade, June 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Princess Marie of Rumania was making the final preparations today for her marriage to-morrow to King Alexander of Jugo-slavia. When she arrived here yes-terday and put foot on the soil of her future kingdom, she was given bread and salt by the mayor of Bel-grade in token of friendship and loy-

The princess upon her arrival wore a white crepe de chine dress trimaded with silver and gold which she made herself. She and the royal party, including King Ferdinand, Queen Marie, seven ladies-in-waiting and the entire Rumanian royal household, came by boat on the Danube, and were escorted into port by Jugo-Slav airplanes, British, French and Rumanian destroyers and a fleet of Jugo-Slav warships. Scores of boats carrying Jugo-Slavs also welcomed the party.

While she was traversing Rumanian territory, the princess was showered with holy water, incense, rosemary and rice for good luck, and when the party arrived at Belgrade, their vessel passed under an arch bearing the legend:

"Long live our King and Queen. Long live WOULD R."

KLAN IS ABSOLVED OF BURNING CHURCH

Naperville, Ill., June 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—There is absolutely no evidence to connect the Ku Klux Klan with the burning of the Catholic Church of St. Peter and Paul, here early Sunday, Father B. J. Schuette declared today after he had placed at the disposal of agents of the state fire marshal all of the information in his possession. The klan held a meeting and initiation here which broke up just before the church was burned, resulting in reports that it was responsible for the fire.

Reports that as a result of the fire

Minneapolis, Minn., June 7.—Without ecomemdation, the Minnesota out ecomemodation, the Minnesota out ecomempment of the G. A. R. late to-day referred to regimental associations holding Confederate battlefiags a proposal that these flags be returned to their original owners to be burned in Fourth of July celebrations.

The proposal was discussed by the encampment in closed session, and a resolution "urging retura" of the Confederate flags was not put to a vote. Instead of the fire out action of the organization directly interested.

Reports that as a result of the fire members of the church planned concerted campaign to drive the klan, out of Illinois were denied by Father Schuette.

sity was broadcast from WDAW last night and proved as acceptable to radio fans as it was unique.

The selections were all made from the program of the recital given by the students Friday when they scored a considerable success and won much favorable comment for histrionic excellence. The numbers were all entertaining and the performers readily "got the hang" of talking into the transmitters in voices that carried well over the radio waves.

Miss Vivian Linler opened the radio recital with "A Matrimonial Experiment," written by Tom Dixon, Jr. She was followed by Miss Della Johnson with the patriotic theme of
